YR OES A FU

Ceisiwch ddychmygu'r ardal ganrif yn ôl, gyda rhwydwaith o reilffyrdd yn rhedeg ble nawr ceir gwyrddni a llonyddwch y Lonydd Glas. Byddai unrhyw dyfiant ar ochr y trac yn cael ei dorri i leihau perygl tân, a fyddai yn cynnau pan boerai lludw poeth o simdde'r trenau stêm. Erbyn heddiw, mae'r trenau trwm a'u mwg taglyd wedi diflannu, yn ogystal â bywyd unigryw 'Oes a Trêñ'.

Sefydlwyd y llinellau isod i wasanaethu cymunedau lleol:

- Abermaw – Rhiwabon 1869 – 1964
- Bangor – Bethesda (lein gul) 1801 – 1962
- Bangor – Bethesda (LNWR) 1884 – 1963
- Bangor – Caernarfon 1851 – 1972
- Caernarfon – Afonwen 1867 – 1964
- Caernarfon – Llanberis 1869 – 1964

Gyda cherbydau modur ar gynnydd a gwellhad yn ffyrdd yr ardal, bu gostyngiad yn nefnydd y rheilffyrdd. Caewyd nifer o linellau gwledig yn yr 1960au, gyda'r lein rhwng Caernarfon a Bangor y diwethaf i gael ei gau yn yr ardal yma ar ddiwrnod o eira ym mis Ionawr 1972. Yn dilyn cynnydd ym mhoblogrwydd beicio a cherdded fel gweithgareddau hamdden, dechreuwyd sefydlu'r Lonydd Glas yn yr 1980au. Dyma'r sylfaen sy'n ffurfio rhwydwaith Lonydd Glas Gwynedd heddiw.

Ceir eto dro ar fyd gyda dychweliad trenau lein gul Rheilffordd Ucheldir Cymru, sydd nawr yn rhedeg yn gyfochrog â Lôn Eifion rhwng Caernarfon a gorsaf Dinas.

A BYGONE ERA

Try and imagine what the region would have looked like a century ago, when railway lines used to run along the now green and quiet Lonydd Glas. Most of the plant growth you see today has grown since the closure of the railways, since all verges were kept clear of vegetation to lessen the risk of fire from hot ash billowing out of the steam engines. Today, the rumble of approaching trains and the smell of smoke has gone, so has the hustle and bustle of what used to be a way of life in the railway era.

The following railway lines were established to serve local communities:

- Barmouth – Rhiwabon 1869 – 1964
- Bangor – Bethesda (narrow gauge) 1801 – 1962
- Bangor – Bethesda (LNWR) 1884 – 1963
- Bangor – Caernarfon 1851 – 1972
- Caernarfon – Afonwen 1867 – 1964
- Caernarfon – Llanberis 1869 – 1964

As you can imagine, with motor vehicles becoming popular and roads being improved earlier this century, demand for railway travel declined. Many rural lines were closed in the 1960s, with the line between Caernarfon and Bangor the last in this region to close on a snowy January day in 1972. With the increase in demand for cycling and walking opportunities in recent years, construction of the Lonydd Glas began in the 1980s. These paths were the foundation for the Lonydd Glas network we have today.

Today we have the return of the Welsh Highland Railway, which runs parallel with Lôn Eifion between Caernarfon and Dinas station.

ON-ROAD ROUTES IN GWYNEDD

In Gwynedd there are a number of quiet country lanes that complement the mainly off-road Recreational Routes network. These offer excellent leisurely cycling opportunities, and open up secluded corners of the countryside. Paths have also been built alongside some of the county's busiest roads to improve access and hence your safety.

Here is a summary of routes which are mainly on-road.

NATIONAL CYCLE NETWORK

- Lôn Las Cymru (route 8) – this established route follows a combination of on and off-road paths between Holyhead in the north and either Cardiff or Chepstow to the south.
- Route 5 – a mainly on-road and pavement route between Bangor and Chester.

Further information about the National Cycle Network can be gained by contacting Sustrans Cymru on 02920 650 602.

LÔN ARDUDWY

This 35-kilometre on-road route links the Cob at Porthmadog with the promenade at Barmouth. With stunning views across Cardigan Bay and the Rhinogydd mountain range, the path has been designed so that it is easy to ride it in its entirety or in smaller manageable sections. Take note that some of the hills are very steep, and that extra care should be taken along sections that follow highways.

LÔN DYSYNNI

Here is a route that will lead you into the scenic Dysynni Valley. One of the valley's main features is Bird Rock, a rocky outcrop some 250m in height that provides excellent roosting and nesting for a wide range of wild birds. This route can be linked to Lôn Arduddy and the National Cycle Network.

CYCLE HUBS - LIŶN Peninsula and Dolgellau

Varied cycle rides, mostly on country lanes, some short, gentle rides mixed with longer more varied rides. Whichever route you choose, enjoy a great day out. Four rides are available on the Liŷn Peninsula and 5 in the Dolgellau area. Information available in the Tourist Information Centres.

Gallwch gael rhagor o wybodaeth a chyngor am gerdded a beicio er lles eich ieched gan eich meddyg teulu neu'r Gwasanaeth Hybu lechedyd.

HEALTH BENEFITS

Regular and moderate cycling or walking can:

- Lower blood pressure.
- Lower cholesterol levels.
- Strengthen bones and muscles.
- Help to control your weight.

All the above contribute to a wide range of health problems, including coronary heart disease. Walking and cycling can reduce the risk of a stroke, diabetes, osteoporosis and obesity. If you're out of practice for walking or cycling, the mainly flat and traffic free Lonydd Glas routes can offer you an excellent place to get back into the habit.

You can obtain further information and advice on walking and cycling as a way of improving your health from your family doctor or Health Awareness Service.

Y Cob a Moel y Gest // Y Cob and Moel y Gest

Y COB

Dros y canrifoedd breuddwydiodd sawl un am ddarparu llwybr diogel dros wastadedd Traeth Mawr, ond William Alexander Maddocks, bror o Sir Ddinbych a wireddodd y freuddwyd. Cychwynnodd ar waith i adeiladu'r Cob yn 1807, gan ei gwblhau yn 1811 am gost o tua £160,000.

'Roedd y cynllun hefyd yn gyfrifol am adennill erwau o dir amaethyddol o'r gwlyptir a'r corsydd, ac ar y tir yma yr adeiladodd Maddocks bentref Tremadog, ac y sefydlwyd y rhan helaeth o dref Porthmadog. Sefydlwyd Rheilffordd Ffestiniog ar y Cob gwreiddiol yn 1830 i gludo llechi o Flaenau Ffestiniog i'w hallforio o Borthmadog, ac adeiladwyd ffordd newydd ar y morglawdd.

Yn y flwyddyn 2001 daeth cyfle i ehangu a chyfnherthu'r Cob trwy ledur briffordd ac adeiladu llwybr i feicwyr a cherddwyr ar yr ochr ddwyreiniol. Nid yn unig y mae'n fan ardderchog i wyllo'r amrywiaeth o fywyd gwyllt a geir ar forfa'r Glaslyn, ond mae'r llwybr bellach yn rhan o rwydwaith Lonydd Glas Gwynedd a'r Rhwydwaith Beicio Cenedlaethol.

Y COB

Over the centuries many had dreamed of providing a safe way to cross over the treacherous sands of Traeth Mawr, but it was William Alexander Maddocks of Denbighshire who eventually realised this dream. Construction work on the Cob embankment began in 1807, and was eventually completed in 1811 at a cost of £160,000.

The Cob project also reclaimed acres of agricultural land from the wetlands and marshes, and it was on this land that Maddocks built Tremadog, and on which most of the town of Porthmadog was also built. In 1830 the Ffestiniog Railway was established along the Cob to transport slate from the quarries at Blaenau Ffestiniog for export at Porthmadog.

In 2001 the Cob was strengthened, the roadway widened and a new embankment built to carry a pathway for walkers and cyclists on the landward side. Apart from being an excellent viewing area for watching/observing the wide variety of wildlife that can be found on the Glaslyn salt marshes, the path is also part of the Lonydd Glas Gwynedd network, and the National Cycle Network.

RHEOLAETH A CHADWRAETH

Amcanion Cyngor Gwynedd ac Awdurdod Parc Cenedlaethol Eryri wrth reoli'r Lonydd Glas yw sicrhau eich bod yn mwynhau eu defnyddio, yn ogystal â gwarchod y bywyd gwyllt sydd i'w gael y naill ochr i'r llwybrau. Byddwn yn darparu gwahanol offer megis adnoddau parcio beicio, byrddau picnic a phaneli gwylbodaeth yn y mannau mwyaf poblogaidd ar y teithiau, ond eto yn gwarchod rhag gor-ddatblygu llwybrau yng nghefn gwlad.

Cewch weld bod y Lonydd Glas yn gartref i nifer fawr o wahanol blanhigion, adar ac anifeiliaid, gyda rhai o'r rhain yn brin neu yn warchodedig fel y mochyn daear cuddiedig. Mae'r llwybrau yn bwysig i'r rhywogaethau hyn gan eu bod yn ymddwyn fel corridorau ble gall y bywyd gwyllt symud yn ddi-sylw o gwmpas cefn gwlad. Ceir yma nifer fawr o wahanol gynefinoedd sydd yn gartref i'r anifeiliaid hyn, megis coedlannau, gwlyptir a glaswelltir, maent i gyd yn cyfrannu at gymeriad unigryw y Lonydd Glas.

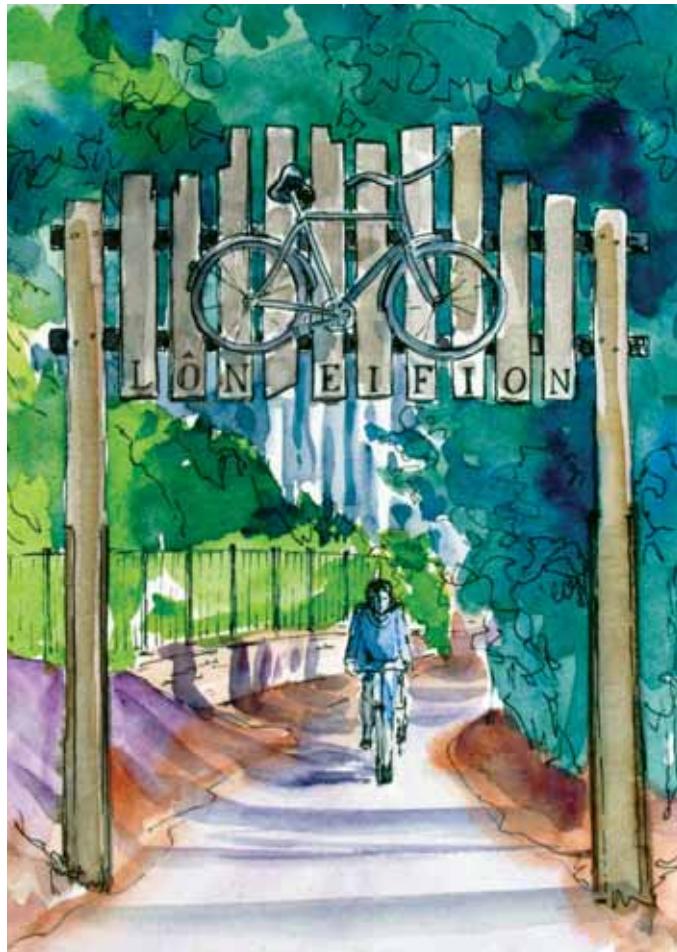

Byddwn yn gwerthfawrogi unrhyw gymorth a chydweithrediad gennych tuag at reoli'r Lonydd Glas.

MANAGEMENT & CONSERVATION

Whilst managing the Lonydd Glas network, Gwynedd Council and the Snowdonia National Park Authority keep two main aims in mind – to enhance your enjoyment of the routes, and to protect the wildlife which can be seen on either side of the paths. We try and meet the first aim by maintaining the path surfaces, and providing bicycle racks, picnic tables and information panels at the more popular sites.

Countless numbers of different plant, bird and animal species have settled along the routes, with many of these being quite rare or are protected by law, such as the elusive badger. The paths act as natural corridors along which wildlife can travel under cover through the countryside. The many different habitats that we manage along the path verges such as woodland, wet pastures and scrub land, all contribute towards making the Lonydd Glas network a world of its own.

We appreciate any help or co-operation from you towards managing the Lonydd Glas.

GWYNEDD RECREATIONAL ROUTES

Looking for a safe, traffic-free location for a spot of walking or cycling?

Want to get away from the hustle and bustle of everyday life?

Why not pay a visit to your local Lonydd Glas (Recreational Routes) network?

Designed especially for walking and cycling, there are over 50.5 kilometres (31.5 miles) of these purpose-built paths in Gwynedd, where you can relax amid nature and forget about the outside world.

Established along disused railway lines, these are quiet rural paths that lazily meander into the picturesque Gwynedd countryside; a region that is unique as regards to its landscape, its culture and people, and is also a stronghold for the Welsh language.

This network is based on paths that are used by permission of Gwynedd Council and the Snowdonia National Park Authority. The Lonydd Glas are there for your enjoyment, therefore your respect and good behaviour is sought at all times.

Thank you.

LÔN LAS OGWEN

Uned Gweithredu Gwledig

Cyngor Gwynedd: 01286 672 255

Dyffryn yr Afon Cegin yw un o fannau tawelaf yr ardal, lle'n aml nid oes dim ond sŵn yr afon. Gelwir y rhan hon o'r llwybr sy'n rhedeg drwy'r dyffryn cysgodol rhwng Porth Penrhyn a phentref Glasinfrynn yn Lôn Bach. Adeiladwyd Lôn Bach yn yr 1980au ar gyn reilffordd gul Stad y Penrhyn, a sefydlwyd i gludo llechi o chwarel Bethesda i'w hallforio o Borth Penrhyn. Erbyn heddiw, mae Lôn Bach yn rhan o Lôn Las Ogwen, sy'n ymlusgo'n ddiog ar ei thaith tros y bont odidog ger Glasinfrynn i Dregarth, a heibio Chwarel Penrhyn i Nant Ffrancon.

Nid yw cynllun Lôn Las Ogwen wedi ei gwblhau, a gobeithiwn gysylltu'r daith â Bethesda.

LÔN LAS OGWEN

Rural Operations Unit

Gwynedd Council: 01286 672 255

To walk this path south from Porth Penrhyn is like walking hand in hand with the River Cegin. This part of the route which runs between Porth Penrhyn and the village of Glasinfrynn, was developed in the 1980's and is also known as Lôn Bach. The disused narrow gauge railway upon which the path was built, was constructed by the Penrhyn Estate to transport slate from the quarries at Bethesda for export at Porth Penrhyn. By today, Lôn Bach is part of Lôn Las Ogwen which continues south on its journey, stretching lazily over the viaduct at Glasinfrynn to Tregarth, and past Penrhyn Quarry into the Ffrancon Valley.

Lôn Las Ogwen is an on-going project, which aims to complete the Bangor to Bethesda link.

MAWDDACH TRAIL

Snowdonia National Park Authority, 01766 770 274

Winding lazily along a disused railway track, the Mawddach Trail which is owned and managed by the Snowdonia National Park Authority, follows the Mawddach estuary from Barmouth to Dolgellau. The path, having been surfaced using compacted dust, has further been developed between Penmaenpool and Dolgellau to cater for disabled users.

Awe inspiring views can be seen whilst walking and cycling the path, especially of the estuary and the spectacular Barmouth bridge. Also, hidden along the path verges and outlying land are species rich habitats such as wetland and forestry, for example Coedydd Abergwynant, a woodland adjacent to the path which is owned by the Authority.

The Mawddach Trail is part of Lôn Las Cymru, route number 8 on the National Cycle Network.
